

AMENDMENT TO CLAIMS

Claims 1-3 (cancelled)

Claim 4 (currently amended) A novelty golf putter for conceding putts comprising an elongated hollow shaft having opposite ends, said hollow shaft having external threads at one of said opposite ends and a putter head affixed to the other of said opposite ends, a handle means being threadedly removably affixed to to said external threads of said one of said opposite ends, an elongated rod means being telescopically inserted in said hollow shaft and being attached to said handle means, said elongated rod means being stowed within said hollow shaft when said handle means is threadedly affixed to said hollow shaft, and said elongated rod means permitting said handle means to be freely extended for a predetermined distance from said one of said opposite ends of said shaft ~~in a connected~~ ~~relationship~~ upon threaded disengagement ~~removal~~ of said handle means from said hollow shaft.

Claim 5 (cancelled)

Claim 6 (currently amended). The golf putter according to Claim 4 [[5]] wherein said rod includes an end portion for preventing separation of said rod from said hollow shaft.